THREE DIFFERENT LOOKS

Whether you are purchasing flooring from our solid or engineered collections, three grades are offered to ensure that you can achieve the look you desire. A wide selection of beautiful, quality products is available for virtually every style from formal to country. Because natural variations occur in each grade of flooring based on characteristics of individual species, you should check with your sales representative for exact specifications.

Premium flooring is manufactured from the highest grade of lumber available for each species. Minor character marks, pin knots and natural fluctuations in color and appearance are specific to each species.

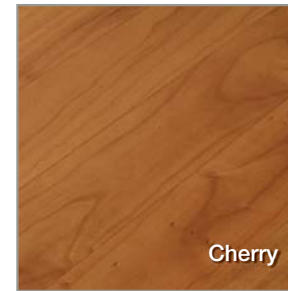

Natural select flooring is manufactured from a select grade of lumber that provides a very natural appearance with pronounced grain patterns and occasional knots.

Rustic flooring includes sound knots with a maximum diameter of 1-3/4", along with sapwood and distinct character marks.

Our hardwoods are sourced and dried at our concentration yards located throughout the Appalachian region. Prime hardwood flooring and paneling is manufactured to your specifications at our plant in Cleveland, Georgia. Standard sizes include 3", 5" and 7" faces machined to 3/4" thickness and end-matched. All flooring products are precision-moulded and offered unfinished. Available in premium and natural select grades, certain species are also available in a rustic grade.

EXCEPTIONAL CONSTRUCTION

The unique structure of Hakwood engineered flooring resists expansion and contraction associated with daily indoor moisture and temperature changes. This stability is achieved by cross lamination of different layers of wood. A 14 mm (1/2") water-resistant plywood back layer combined with a six mm (1/4") solid hardwood top layer ensures a stable, durable product. This hardwood top layer, which is two to three times the thickness of many popular engineered flooring products, is comparable to the lifetime wear of a solid hardwood product.

Engineered Collection Species

ENGINEERED FLOORING SPECIES

Our engineered plank flooring collection is available in 19 species and a variety of finishes. Hakwood engineered flooring may be ordered unfinished for your own custom site finishing or prefinished in a wide range of options, including hard wax oiled, wire brushed, fumed, and stained. Depending on the species selected, additional specialty finishes, such as lacquered, white-washed, pub oiled and smoked are also available.

Unfinished flooring is available square edge or with micro bevel edges on the long sides. Prefinished options are provided with micro bevel edges on the long sides. Micro beveling on the short or butt ends is an additional option in either unfinished or prefinished flooring. Check with your sales representative for the combination of finishes and edges available in the species that suits your project best.
