

CASE STUDY

ahc HARDWOOD
group

Residential Design, Atlanta, GA

This classic residential installation was designed by noted Atlanta-based American architect, Norman Askins www.normanaskins.com. The Askins firm worked closely with the AHC Hardwood Group to source materials to interpret the Askins design. Featured hardwood products include French-polished European white oak architectural panels with a clear natural stain manufactured to specification by Asselin, Inc. www.asselinusa.com. Custom mouldings complete the library shelves and coffered ceiling. The wide-plank French oak flooring is hand-scraped and waxed with a tobacco finish. Other features of this home include a custom bar with contemporary lines and a stylish use of quartered figured anigre. The specialists at AHC Hardwood Group worked with Bill Thomsen of Thomsen, LTD Furniture Makers to bring this custom bar to life. A memorable powder room boasts a stunning installation of blueprint-matched oriental wood chevron veneer panels.
